RESENCE, OF MIND.

pake of Wellington's Experi-With a Murderous Maniac. day as the Duke of Wellington riting at his library table quite his door was suddenly opened nt a knock or announcement of ort, and in stalked a gaunt man. tood before the commander in with his hat on and a savage exon of countenance. The duke course a little annoyed at such unceremonious interruption, and, ing up, he asked, "Who are you?" am Dionysius," was the singular wer. "Well, what do you want?" ur life." "My life?" "Yes; I am to kill you." "Very odd," said duke, sitting back and calmly gazat the intruder. "Not at all, for I Dionysius," said the stranger, "and nast put you to death." "Are you liged to perform this duty today?" ry busy just now and have a large nber of letters to write. It would ery inconvenient today." The visloked hard during a moment's "Call again," continued the uke, "or write and make an appointent." "You'll be ready?" "Without ail," was the reply. The maniac. wed doubtless by the stern old solter, backed out of the room without arther words and half an hour later as safe in bedlam.

Taking Life Too Seriously.

Taking life too seriously is said to an especially American failing. This may be true; but, judging from apeurances, it would seem to be worldride, for, go where you may, you will ind the proportion of serious, not to ay anxious, faces ten to one as compared with the merry or happy ones. f "the outer is always the form and hadow of the inner" and if "the present is the fullness of the past and the erald of the future" (and how can we doubt it?), how many sad histories can be read in the faces of those we meet every day! The pity of it is, too, that the sadness is a self woven garment. even as is the joy with which it might be replaced. Ruskin says: "Girls should be sunbeams not only to members of their own circle, but to everybody with whom they come in contact. Every room they enter should be brighter for their presence." Why shouldn't all of us be sunbeams, boys as well as girls, all along the way from twenty-five years and under to eightyfive years and over? Success.

A Cheerful Expression.

"I wish I could always look as cheer ful as you do," said the sweet young thing as she dropped down beside the attractive widow.

"There are times when it is embarrassing, that cheerful expression of mine," said the widow. "Let me tell you. When my husband died, I was journeying alone to his home, where he was to be buried. I was much annoyed at the persistency with which the man across the aisle attempted to fiirt with me. Finally he took a seat in front of me and said, I beg pardon. but I thought I'd like to talk with you awhile because you have such a cheer ful expression.

"And there I'd been weeping my eyes out for two days. So don't cultivate that cheerful look too much or you'll find some one accusing you of looking And Being Closed One Week, happy at a funeral."-New York Times.

A Mediaval Survival.

It may interest some of your readers to know that the archaic method of reckoning by tailies is still in vogue in Pau. While there I saw a bundle of tally sticks (there called tailles) suspended in a baker's shop, and on inquiry I found that most of the poorer country people thus registered their purchases until they were able to pay. The tally stick is cut down the center, the baker and purchaser each retaining a half, and when a loaf is sold the two halves are fitted together, and a notch is made across them, the purchaser thus keeping an exact check upon the baker's score. Upon any payment being made a corresponding number of notches are shaved off.-London Athe-

Smoker's Heart.

Smoking, as a rule, agrees with persons for many years, perhaps for twenty years and longer, although by degrees cigars of a finer flavor are chosen, but all at once, without any assignable cause, troubles are experienced with the heart, which rapidly increase and compel the sufferer to call in the help of a medical man. The age at which disturbances of the beart become pronounced varies very much. It is but rare that patients are under thirty years of age; they are mostly between forty and sixty years old.

Explains It.

"Why is it." asked the curious guest, 'that poor men usually give larger tips than rich men?"

"Well, suh," said the waiter, "de po' man don' want nobody to fin' out he's po', an' de rich man don' want nobody to fin' out he's rich, suh."-Chicago Tribune.

"THE GRANDEST MERCANTILE PLANT IN AMERICA."

Not long since a Western merchant made a tour of inspection of our new store, and when asked his opinion, replied : "The grandest plant in America." And so it is in every detail. Others may have cost more to construct, but for practical, up-to-date, modern merchandising methods, this store stands in the front rank of the mercantile world.
